19 Mills Idle, 20,000 Loaf

Production was at a standstill today in 19 New England textile mills as more than 20,000 CIO workers in Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island continued their walk-outs for union or closed shops, wage increases and other benefits.

In Maine, where CIO leaders hailed the strike as showing labor's complete unity of purpose, there were management reports that eight closed mills might remain closed indefinitely if the strikers fail to return by Wednesday.

Few developments were expected in the Maine situation over the week-end and mills are scheduled to be open Monday for any workers who want to go back to their jobs. Picket lines have been established at all mills.

Union leaders in New York warned that the strike of 4000 Greyhound bus drivers and terminal employes might become nationwide. The walkout has halted all Greyhound traffic east of the Mississippi. In New England, 400 are out and all buses are garaged.

Telegraph service was back to normal today in Providence, and Hartford, where Western Union workers joined with fellow employes in New York, Philadelphia and other cities in a five-hour work stoppage demonstration in protest against WLB rulings. The demonstration was staged in defiance of national officers of the Commercial Telegraphers Union.

Conferences were scheduled today in North Adams, in a move to end the strike of 1900 workers at the Sprague Electric Co., out over demands for a 30 per cent wage increase. In Ashuelot Valley, N. H., 120 employes of four paper mills voted to strike for a 15 cents an hour pay boost.

Beer trucks rolled again today in Boston and Lowell after a walkout of 1600 brewery workers threatened a suds shortage. The brief "holiday," which union leaders said was unauthorized, ended after four hours when workers agreed to an increase of $7 a week and a $75 bonus.

In Providence 7900 employes of the Brown & Sharpe Mfg. Co. remained out today. Textile mills hit by strikes in addition to the eight in Maine where 10,000 workers are affected include three in Connecticut employing 2500; two in Nashua, N. H., with 4000 workers, and six in Rhode Island employing almost 6000.

42 Dachau Killers Face Death Axe

By PIERRE J. HUSS

DACHAU, Germany, Nov. 3 (INS)—Forty-two former Nazi taskmasters at the infamous Dachau concentration camp here were indicted today on charges of killing, torturing, starving and beating thousands of civilians of various nationalities, including Allied war prisoners.

If sentenced to death, the defendants will be beheaded by the axe.

The Germans will go on trial Nov. 15 before a general court-martial presided over by Maj. Gen. John M. Lentz and seven colonels. This will be the first mass trial of war criminals in the American zone. It parallels the British prosecution of the former Nazi overlords at the Belsen and Oswiecin camps.

With 34 of the defendants present and eight enroute from other sectors, the five-minute indictment was read today by Chief U. S. Prosecutor Lt. Col. William S. Denson.

He notified the accused they would be allowed German lawyers to defend them.

Renewed Cairo Rioting Quelled

CAIRO, Nov. 3 (AP)—Anti-Zionist riots broke out in Cairo again today but were swiftly suppressed by police.

Heavy patrols remained on duty throughout the city to prevent further renewal of the bloody violence which yesterday cost six lives in Alexandria and left hundreds wounded in Cairo, Alexandria, Port Said and other Egyptian cities.

Maj. Gen. T. W. Fitzpatrick, acting commandant of Cairo police, personally directed his men as they broke up crowds stoning business establishments in the business district today.

CAPT. AND MRS. EDWARD NESTOR

Army Nurse and Bridegroom Leaving Church After Wedding

(INP by Harold Williams)

Liberated Nurse Becomes Bride

Lt. Helen M. Cassiani of Bridgewater, Army nurse who spent more than three years in a Jap prison camp, was married this morning to Capt. Edward Nestor of Farm rd., Belmont, veteran of the European theater, at a nuptial mass in St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Bridgewater.

Among those present were other Army nurses who had been confined with her at Santo Tomas in the Philippines, as well as chaplains and missionaries also liberated by Rangers and Scouts last February.

Officiating was the Rev. Henry Carr, Pennsylvania missionary, who was at Santo Tomas. Present were Maj. John J. Dugan, S. J., Milton chaplain; Maj. Albert D. Talbot, Catholic chaplain at Camp Edwards; Lt. Rita Palmer, Army nurse, of Hampton, N. H., and Lt. Phyllis Arnold of New York, all former Jap prisoners.

It was a double ring, military wedding, followed by a breakfast at Toll House, Whitman. The bride, for whom Lt. Arnold was bridesmaid, was given away by her brother, Charles Cassiani. The best man was Thomas F. Nestor, World War II veteran and brother of the bridegroom.

China Reds In Peace Offer

CHUNGKING, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Communist headquarters spokesman here tonight countered a central government peace proposal with the announcement that when "all Kuomintang troops throughout the country are asked to stop fighting, the Communists will do likewise."

The nationalist proposal was designed to bring an immediate cessation of hostilities, K. C. Wu, information minister, said in announcing earlier the offer had been made. He said it contained four "concrete points" but did not name them.

The Communist spokesman said "the civil war has been widespread throughout China. The fighting should stop not only along the railways but from South China to Bulutao in Manchuria. The Communists approve the proposal to replace Communist troops with railway police provided government troops withdraw to a distance of 10 kilometers, as requested by the Communists.

French Turn Over Starved PWs to U. S.

CROUTOY, France, Nov. 3 (AP)—The first German prisoners of war returned to U. S. Army control by the French have been classified by American medical authorities as unfit to work. Many of them look almost like the corpses resurrected from the horror camps of their own fatherland.

The former German soldiers, who had been turned over to the French as laborers, are being taken back by the Americans under a project identified by the Army code name "Operation Skinny." They were called back after Red Cross charges they were being treated below standards set by international convention.

The charges resulted in Gen. Eisenhower halting more transfers to the French and agreeing to take back those unfit for labor. The French have insisted most of them were returned in the same condition in which they were received.

One group of 1151 prisoners arrived yesterday. It was a beggar army of pale, thin men clad in vermin-infested tatters. All said they had not eaten in two days.

What's in Name?

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 3 (INS)—Temperance Christian was released from the Miami jail today.

The 41-year-old woman was charged with being drunk.

DICKIE TUM SUDEN, 3; MRS. JOSEPH TUM SUDEN
Hundreds Seek Lost Socialite Boy in Mines

Kidnap Fear Spurs Search for Heir, 3

DOWNIEVILLE, Cal., Nov. 3 (AP)—Fear of kidnaping, voiced by wealthy grandparents, had spurred the search today for blonde, blue-eyed 3-year-old Dickie Tum Suden, missing since Thursday morning from his parents' home in the rugged Sierra Nevada Mother Lode country.

The child's maternal grandfather, A. L. Merritt, Sr., of Berkeley, declared: "I am afraid of kidnaping—some screwball, maybe. I also fear that if he was kidnaped harm may have come to him."

Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters in San Francisco answered queries about the case with a terse "No comment."

BULLETIN

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 3 (INS)—An intensive search was begun in Oakland today for Dickie Tum Suden, following a report a child answering his description was seen in Oakland with two sailors. The sailors took the boy into a cafe where she was employed, a woman told police.

The boy disappeared while playing near his parent's home at Goodyear Bar. His father, Joseph Tum Suden, manages the nearby Brush Creek gold mine owned by Merritt.

Dickie, whose full name is Richard Merritt Tum Suden, had been given permission by his mother at 9 a. m., Thursday, to play in the front yard.

When Mrs. Tum Suden, the former Sally Margaret Merritt, Bay area socialite, went outside at 9:30 the child was nowhere to be seen. The distracted mother ran to the highway, asked help of a passing motorist and then notified authorities.

Searchers were puzzled by the actions of the boy's collie dog, a constant companion, which was found at a spot about a quarter of a mile from the house Thursday afternoon. The dog refused to move farther up the hill, and a few feet away, beside a log, searchers found one of the boy's mittens.

The dog was returned along the same route yesterday, but when he reached the same spot he refused to go any farther.

Sheriff W. Dewey Johnson said the dog's action may support one theory that the child was carried off by a mountain lion, of which there are many in this area.

All available men in Downieville and the surrounding country, plus forest rangers and some 200 soldiers from Camp Beale, have searched the area around the Tum Suden home.

The kidnaping theory was given further weight by Mrs. Richard Tum Suden, grandmother, who recalled a warning of kidnaping involving another grandson, Richard Crane, now 6, in 1941. The warning was given by a man Mrs. Tum Suden identified as an FBI agent.

Curley Leading In Final Drive

Cong. James M. Curley appeared to hold a substantial lead over his five mayoralty rivals today with less than three days remaining before Boston's municipal election Tuesday.

Overwhelmingly Democratic sections, such as East Boston, Charlestown, the North End and Roxbury, were responding vigorously to his candidacy.

His rivals now are concentrating their efforts in attempting to gain the major share of a widely split Republican vote and all candidates planned active week-ends to bring the campaign to a roaring finish. How it stacked up:

CURLEY

Boston's survival as a commercial and industrial city in the postwar era depends on preventing removal of Boston firms to Cambridge and other cities, Cong. Curley declared. He charged that inexperience is a serious municipal liability and that Boston cannot hope to prosper if there is no leadership to preserve its industrial prestige.

"I can give positive assurance that the Boston tax rate of $42.50 will be substantially reduced; that traffic congestion and other long-ignored problems that affect industry will be satisfactorily and intelligently handled, and that every encouragement will be given present and prospective employers," the congressman said.

KERRIGAN

Asserting that the Curley and Reilly candidacies were based on spending and building, Mayor Kerrigan said his opponents could make no legitimate criticism of his 10-month period of service. Citing achievements of his administration, Kerrigan enumerated eight accomplishments which, he said, prove his candidacy is based on establishment of essential city services.

Kerrigan asserted he saved the city $500,000 in snow removal costs; safeguarded homes by procuring fuel for residents last winter; establishing a veterans' center; instituted a recreation program; reconstructed over 200 streets in residential sections; effected a $12,000,000 saving by refinancing Sumner Tunnel bonds; supported legislation to develop the airport and port of Boston, and reopened the East Boston Relief Hospital.

REILLY

Former Fire Com. William Arthur Reilly concentrated his attacks on Curley asserted the election had narrowed down to a fight between him and the congressman. Accusing Curley of confusing the issue, Reilly said:

"Out of the welter of conflicting claims and counter claims, one dominant issue has emerged stronger than ever. That issue is whether we are to have honest, capable city government. It is inconceivable that the voters of our city will go to the polls Tuesday and not exercise their common sense."

FEENEY

After completing 300 outdoor rallies, Rep. Michael Paul Feeney asked support of voters because of his businesslike program and because "Boston needs a Mayor who is honest, sincere and has a comprehensive knowledge of municipal finance."

Feeney reiterated his promise to reduce the tax rate to below $35 and to establish a free city college.

SAWTELLE

Governor's Councilor John J. Sawtelle, expressing confidence that he will sweep the city in Tuesday's election, announced that the Friendship Social and Political Slub of Roxbury, a colored organization, had endorsed his candidacy.

"This endorsement is one of many recently given my candidacy, and there are hundreds of organizations in all wards of the city behind me.

LEE

Asserting that he was the people's candidate running against machine candidates, former School Committeeman Joseph Lee scheduled a radio address tonight on the topic? "The Curley Machine, Reilly Machine, Kerrigan Machine versus Lee."

Biggest Dope Raid In Capital Nets 125

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—A force of 220 police and federal agents, striking simultaneously at 34 establishments, seized more than 125 persons during the night in one of the capital's biggest narcotic raids.

Suspects were herded into vans and taken to police headquarters. More than 40 were booked on various charges.

Raiders also confiscated thousands of dollars worth of narcotics, including 80 ounces of heroin valued at $4000.

Col. Edward J. Kelly, superintendent of Washington police, said 32 squads took part in the drive.

Kelly said it was the largest narcotics raid he could recall in 39 years of association with Washington police. He said the raid was timed to coincide with similar roundups in New York and Baltimore.

In New York, Garland H. Williams, district superintendent of the federal narcotics bureau, said 12 persons charged with peddling narcotics, including the reported leader of gangs operating here and in Washington, were arrested.

Storm-Tossed Vets Dock Here

More than 1700 troops reached Boston today aboard the S. S. Santa Maria after a passage from Marseilles which even the ship's captain described as the worst in all his years at sea.

The group, including 98 New Englanders, also had 242 members of the 10th Field Hospital, which saw service in England, France, Belgium and Germany. Only two of 18 nurses were from New England, and none of the surgeons was from this section.

They and the soldiers admitted they had been a very worried lot for several days, but managed to grin with happiness as the ship was warped into Commonwealth Pier.

Capt. J. J. Martin bore out the story of the returnees by saying the vessel had tossed like "an empty egg" for three days.

"We were without ballast and drawing only 12 feet of water when that terrific storm hit us off the English channel," he said. "It was the worst trip I've ever made."

The two New England nurses were Lts. Catherine G. Winn of Nashua, N. H., and Mary Jenne of Bridgewater, Vt. They and their comrades were worried about automobile tires for the machines they left in storage long ago.

The first Bay Stater off the ship was Sgt. Walter L. Downing of Marlborough st., Waltham, who had served overseas for 32 months in the campaigns in Italy, France and Germany.

Others included Sgt. Lee W. Blanchard of Whitman and Sgt. John Doyle of Roxbury.

Meanwhile, two other transports debarked troops at the Army Base. The SS Pittsfield Victory brought home 1969 from Europe and the SS George B. McClellan docked with 612 others.

Jap Accuses Yamashita of Torture Link

By DEAN SCHEDLER

MANILA, Nov. 3 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Yamashita, who was reduced to the status of the jackal of the Philippines by the end of the war, today was linked for the first time directly with the hyena-like brutalities of the barbarous troops he commanded.

A Jap interpreter who served with the brutal Kempei Tai military police and the Filipino secretary of a known collaborator with the enemy both testified to Yamashita's knowledge of the brutal doings of the Jap soldiers.

Narciso Lapus, former secretary to the exiled Gen. Artemio Ricarte, was brought into court under guard from an internee prison to testify that in conversations with Ricarte, Yamashita affirmed his order to "wipe out all Filipinos."

Lapus testified, over repeated protest by the defense, that Ricarte contacted Yamashita at least four times and pleadcd with him to spare the Philippines from mass destruction and slayings.

But, Lapus asserted, Yamashita was firm in his order to the troops to "wipe out all Filipinos, as they are no longer our friends. They now are helping the guerrillas and are 100 per cent enemies of ours."

Vets' Bureau Has Busy Moving Day

Hundreds of men and women employes of the Veterans' Bureau tackled one of the biggest moving jobs here for a long time today when they pitched in to help transfer their records, files and furniture from the Federal bldg. to more expansive quarters at 17 Court st.

A trucking contractor's men were scheduled to work all night and perhaps well into tomorrow so that most of the bureau's personnel might be functioning as usual by Monday morning at the new headquarters.

Slain Boy's Pals To Be Bearers

Classmates of 12-year-old Earle Apidianakis from the Abraham Lincoln School, South End, will act as pallbearers Monday at the funeral of the boy who was shot and killed by his mother as an innocent pawn in a custody dispute. The funeral services will be at 2 p. m. at the Greek Cathedral Church, Parker and Ruggles sts., Roxbury.

The mother, Mrs. Gertrude Apidianakis, 48, of Massachusetts ave., South End, who fired five bullets into the boy's body because she feared he was to be given into the custody of her divorced husband, is being held without bail for hearing Thursday, following arraignment in municipal court on a charge of murder.

Big USS Missouri Damaged More by Kids Than by Japs

NEW YORK (INS)—Sixty thousand school children who visited the battleship Missouri last Monday were disclosed today to have caused more damage to the mighty dreadnaugh in one day than the combined efforts of the entire Jap fleet and air force durinf the war.

"What those kids did to this ship is incredible," said the Missouri's executive officer, Com. Arthur F. Spring. "Hundreds of them came aboard with pliers, screwdrivers and wrenches hidden in their clothing.

"The wildest stunt of all was pulling a general fire and battle stations alarm. It had the crew nuts until we de-energized the circuit and shut off the clatter.

"Another kid sprang the safety catch on a two-ton life raft. It almost killed him when it crashed to the deck. He lost a finger.

"But that was only part of it. The kids scratched their initials all over the ship, yanked everything resembling a lever, removed nameplates from guns and bulkheads and walked off with fire nozzles that weighed 10 pounds each.

"Some people, probably adults, tried to unscrew the surrender plaque. Since then, we've had to wire everything down."

CPA Takes Over As WPB Passes Out

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The War Production Board goes out of existence today. The new Civilian Production Administration will take over the few remaining wartime controls over industry.

Officially, WPB passes from the scene tonight. Monday, some 3500 members of a staff that once numbered 23,000 will go to work for the CPA.

AFL May Halt Work 24 Hours At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3 (AP)—The possibility that all AFL unions in the New Orleans area might be asked to engage in a 24-hour work stoppage today highlighted union reaction to the closing of three Higgins Industries plants here.

The offer of Andrew J. Higgins, Sr., to sell the boat and trailer plants to the unions with which he had been in dispute brought from William L. Donnels, publicity chairman of the New Orleans Metal and Building Trades Councils (AFL), allegations of "smoke screen" tactics and a demand for a congressional investigation.

Ward Advocates New School Unit

More abundant educational opportunities for Boston youth were advocated today by Michael J. Ward, chairman of the Boston School Committee and candidate for re-election.

"We need a post high school training center for technical education which will be more than one of high school grade, but less than one of full college grade," Ward said.

"Thus we could prepare young men and young women for the thousands of industrial jobs that lie somewhere in the occupational scale between the skilled trade worker and the college-trained engineer.

"We have the equipment. We have the teachers. All we need is the program which I am presenting."

As evidence that the establishment of such a training center is possible and feasible, Ward pointed to his successful sponsorship of expanded physical education programs, youth recreation projects, junior town meetings, pupil forums, improved guidance techniques, wartime child care centers, released time for religious instuction, hot lunches and low cost milk for undernourished and needy children, better and more numerous cafeterias, and more effective kindergartens.

$8614.40 Double Horse Lost Purse At Rock

The horse which won the second half of the daily double at Rockingham Park on Oct. 16, paying off three bettors $8614. 40 each, was found to be improperly registered several days after the race, it was re vealed today.

Detach, an 80-1 underdog, forfeited the purse for running under the wrong ownership, Steward Charles B. Stickney said, and Wayne L., the second horse was declared the winner.

General Manager Lou Smith said that the ruling affected only the purse and not the daily double payoff.

The story was brought to light by George Holland, Boston American columnist, whose account of the discovery appears on Page 13.

Steward Stickney, in a telephone interview with the Boston American, gave this version:

"Following the race a protest was lodged with our department that Detach, the winning horse in the last half of the Oct. 16 daily double, was running under the wrong ownership. Our investigation proved this true. We based our decision on the state racing rule which requires that a horse must run under its right ownership.

"The owners of both Detach and Wayne L., came from New Jersey. The ownership under which Detach ran did not affect the betting and there was nothing illegal about the race. The horse carried the correct weight and was perfectly eligible for the race."

The daily double on Oct. 16—Mighty Tough, a 45-1 shot, and Detach—was the talk of the turf world when the combination made the second highest double payoff in American racing history.

Twenty-eight tickets were sold on the daily double combination of Mighty Tough and Wayne L., which would have resulted in a payoff of $922 80 had the latter been listed as winner on the day of the race.

Smith said:

"The betting is final once the red official goes up on the board. "Detach was not disqualified. The stewards took away the purse. The horse was qualified for the race and met every condition of the race.

"Under racing rules, ownership must be stated correctly. There have been frequent cases where, due to carelessness, horses were not entered under correct ownership. The rules of racing call for a horse that wins under such conditions to lose his purse. This is a matter between horsemen and it has not anything to do with the betting."

STAR LIGHT—The light in the eyes of vocalist Frances Wayne as she adjusts the tie of trumpeter Neal Hefti is just a reflection of the light in his. The couple, who work with the Woody Herman band, will be married at midnight tonight in St. Anthony's Church, Somerville, which is Frances' home town.

Deer on the Loose Disrupts Lexington

It was a case of "in-again-out-again-Finnegan" for a huge antlered buck deer today which invaded Peter's Music Store in Massachusetts ave., Lexington.

The animal appeared suddenly in the business center and made a mess of traffic when it crossed the avenue. Leaping gracefully over the hood of a parked car to avoid being struck by an auto, the buck landed directly in line with the door of the music store.

A customer, Harry Knight of Grant st., hastily opened the door and the deer lunged in. While several other customers cringed against the walls, the animal roamed around to the accompaniment of toppling counters.

The proprietor, Peter Oppenheim of Brookline, raced to the back door and opened it wide. The bewildered deer, sighting the great outdoors, raced out and was last seen heading toward Bedford on the Boston & Maine railroad tracks.

Lynn Vet Injured Defending Girl

Lewis H. Barrowclough, 24-year-old World War II veteran of Allen ave., Lynn, was in critical condition at Lynn Hospital today because he refused to overlook a stranger's slurring remark about the girl he was escorting home

Barrowclough and Miss Bernice Kilbourn of Newhall st., Lynn, were walking in Exchange st., that city, when two men came out of a hotel and paused. One of them made an offensive remark. The ex-soldier, three years in the service, halted and reproached the insulter. The latter knocked Barrowclough down, rendering him unconscious.

Real GI Pals

Cpl. William Humphrey of Gorham st., Somerville, and PFC Eric Mercer of Harvard ter., Allston, came home aboard the U. S. Santa Maria today, vowing they are going into business together.

Soldier Hunts Wife Missing After Visit

A frantic soldier is on emergency furlough today from Camp Croft, S. C., to search for his wife, who disappeared Oct. 24, their eighth wedding anniversary.

Pvt. Charles Steves, 30, said his wife, Theresa, 27, spent ten days with him at Camp Croft, and from New Haven on her return to their Green st., Foxboro, home, she sent him a wire she had left the train to spend the night with a girl friend and would be home the following day.

Mrs. Steves

Steves is in New Haven today, but neither he nor police could find any clues. She is the mother of three children, Patricia, 4; Charles, Jr., 2, and Gregory, 5 months. The latter is sick and under doctors' care.

Mrs. Steves is 5 feet 1 inch tall, weighs 100 pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes. When last seen she wore a beige tweed suit, pink sweater, black shoes, and carried a black handbag.

Death in Subway, Under Probe

Cambridge police today disclosed they were investigating the death of Thomas P. Sullivan, 44, of Beachwood st., Watertown, found unconscious in Harvard sq. subway station Sept. 23.

Lt.-Inspector Patrick F. Ready said the probe was ordered at request of a man whose identity he refused to disclose. Ready said the man claimed Sullivan was knocked down in South Station Sept. 16 by a "college athlete."

Sullivan died in Cambridge City Hospital. Cerebral hemorrhage was given as the cause.

Cambridge Priest Speeds Hunt for GI in Death Race

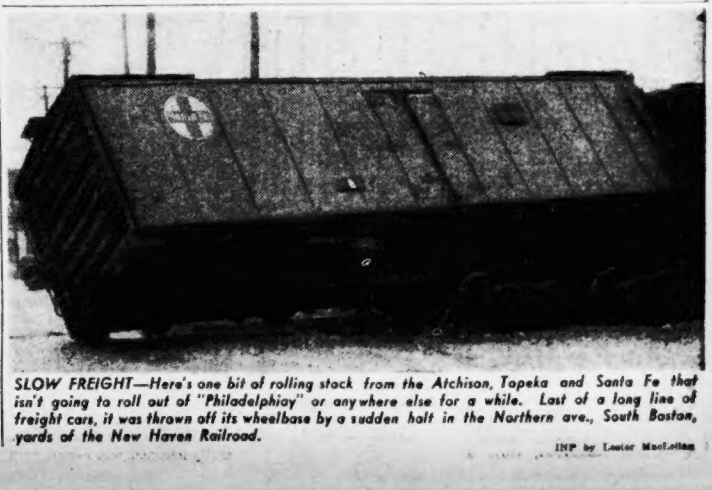
Army authorities, spurred by the request of a Cambridge priest, moved today to find PFC Samuel A. Povio, 20, and expedite his return home from Japan to the bedside of his dying mother.

Doctors have virtually given up hope of saving the life of his mother, Mrs. Vincencina Povio, and say that all that is keeping her alive at her home in Fourth st., East Cambridge, is the tsought that she soon will see her soldier son.

The Rev. Augustine Ciuffo, OFM, of St. Francis Church, Cambridge, appealed to First Service Command officials today to find the youth, who reportedly was granted an emergency furlough Oct. 6 but has not arrived home.

The priest said appeals were made to the Cambridge Chapter of the Red Cross Sept. 26 when the mother's condition grew worse. He was advised on Oct. 8 the emergency furlough had been granted.

At the priest's request Maj. Edward A. Sherman cabled to Povie's commanding officer at Nagoya Japan to determine what was delaying his arrival home. In the event he is en route Maj. Sherman explained the request to expediting his return will be transmitted along his route.



SLOW FREIGHT—Here's one bit of rolling stock from the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe that isn't going to roll out of "Philadelphiay" or anywhere else for a while. Last of a long line of freight cars, it was thrown off its wheelbase by a sudden halt in the Northern ave., South Boston, yards of the New Haven Railroad.

On: Tolerance

Utopia to me isn't a land of sunshine and riches so much as a land of kindness . . . of tolerant people who wouldn't think of allowing bitterness or prejudice to creep into their dealings with those of another race or religion.

I believe we may someday achieve that Utopia . . . if we are intolerant of certain things. Intolerant of filth and disease and poverty. Intolerant of men in public office who pit one group against another in order to further their own political ends.

Let's all use our strength and energy in fighting racial and religious discrimination—let's use it to better the standard of living of one-third of our nation . . . to wipe out illiteracy—and above all, let's practice tolerance in our own homes.

Tonight's play shows how one mother handled the problem and sowed the seed of tolerance in her young son.

Stars Coming For Premiere

"First Yank Into Tokyo," with Hollywood stars in person for the opening day only, will take the screen of the RKO-Boston on next Thursday.

The new film is described as a timely and sensational telling of some hitherto hush-hush espionage stuff in the Pacific.

The big trick, accomplished by a daring young American officer, was to get into the Jap capital in disguise and pick up a highly desirable prisoner.

Principal players are Tom Neal, Barbara Hale, Marc Cramer, Michael St. Angie, Leonard Strong, Richard Leo and Key Luke.

Tom Neal portrays the American officer. Barbara Hale is an Army nurse of more than usual romantic importance.

The K-B's stage show on the same program includes Phil Ragan, the popular tenor of stage and screen, whose singing of Irish ballads endears him to millions; Harry Savoy, famous comedian of the Kate Smith shows; Arren and Broderick, old favorites; Cappela and Paricia, dance team, and the Six Marvelettes, agile group of young ladies who tumble about amazingly.

JOAN CRAWFORD and Ann Blyth in "Mildred Pierce", the much-discussed screen version of the James Cain novel, which will open Thursday at the Metropolitan.

Belts on Dress Parade

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

DRESS UP . . . that's the key word for this first peacetime holiday season . . . and your dressing-up starts in the middle . . . with your belt . . . or a scarf or a jewel.

Opulence and drama circle your waistline and one of the best ways to achieve it is by means of a glamour-designed accent.

Belts this season are really on dress parade. There are sooty black suede belts ablaze with jewels, reed-slim and wide, with glitter belts, royal blue and sable brown bow knots for your under-the-Christmas-tree excitement. Or am I rushing the season?

For the fashion-alert woman who wants to show off her hour-glass waistline . . . there's a winged corselet. This wide belt of rich black suede heightens the fool-the-eye effect of a diminishing waist with stylized floral motif appliqued in gold or silver kid.

WAISTLINE APPEAL

A colorful foil for the basic black dress is the provocative combination of bright hand-woven Guatemalan cotton with inky black suede in a tie-as-you-please belt which Criterion has done so well. The graceful, flowing sash does its part to give your nipped-in waist an even slimmer air.

Other new belts disclose gold kid piping, delicate as a leaf, tracing the edge of a black beauty, intricately twisted through a thick suede-and-gold edged spool for additional center interest. Its double width gives you twice as much waist appeal. For a glittering surprise, you could wear four slender gold belts, row on row, for a golden girdle effect.

For a new waistline appeal, wear your jewel clusters at your waistline and draw the eye to your claim on a youthful silhouette. Or drape your dress with a colorful and splashy scarf to heighten the color of what promises to be the most colorful fashion scene in years.

GAY and exotic, at right, a Guatemalan girdle to accent the nipped-in waistline. Brilliantly striped squares of hand-woven Guatemalan cotton . . . set on soft black suede . . . make this unusual tie-as-you-please Criterion belt . . . perfect complement to the feather-light aluminum bangle bracelets from Coro to be worn over long black suede gloves.

PERFECT for everything, from simple wools to dressy blacks, is this double-belt of black suede shadow-piped with gold kid. Designed by Criterion, two wide bands of the suede are twisted through a spool-loop.

WHY DON'T you add a dash of color and movement to the pencil straightness of your basic black dress? All you need is a long crepe scarf with a glowing paisley-and-garland print . . . like this one by Glen-tex. Tuck the ends of the scarf under the belt so that the drapery falls just above the knees . . . and you strike the newest grace note of the fall fashions.

IF IT IS a real air of individualism you want . . . fasten a big, bright pin at your waist. This Eisenberg graceful spray of gold-washed stems, combining amethyst-colored stones and ice flowers, is definitely a scene stealer. It can really make the simplest of your fall costumes a sensation.

Dance for Deb

By BETTY ALDEN

MR. AND MRS. CORNELIUS C. FELTON of New York issued invitations to a dance in Boston the night before Thanksgiving in honor of their debutante daughter, Judith, a freshman at Radcliffe.

With strong family ties here it is only natural that Judith should choose to make her debut in Boston. Her mother is a Bostonian, daughter of the late Col. William A. Gaston, millionaire lawyer, banker and national figure in politics.

In her debutante days Mrs. Felton, then Hope Gaston, startled society by opening a millinery shop in Newbury st., a venture which proved very successful. Although it was unusual for a wealthy society girl to have a career in those days, she thought every girl needed a job to interest her and give balance to her life. She belonged to the 1920 Sewing Circle, Vincent Club and Chilton Club.

Let's Chat Over Coffee

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

AN INVITATION to a "Coffee" is an invitation to good conversation, good companionship and an all-round pleasant afternoon—and all your friends know it. Next time, instead of planning a bridge, a bingo or a "game afternoon," come right out and admit that you want to see your friends because they are your friends.

Nothing shows off your charm as a hostess quite as well as this type of informal entertaining. To some degree, the success of the affair depends upon your ability to guide the conversation, to channel the interests of the group to something that includes every guest—and is worthwhile for everybody to listen to. To a great degree, the gracious manner in which you serve the coffee—and how good that coffee tastes—will determine how impressive your gathering is.

THE COFFEE SETTING

Make every effort to give your preparations the "nice touch." If you have a coffee service, by all means polish it up and set the stage for your afternoon party around that. But don't feel out of it if the family silver is not out of wartime hiding—or if you haven't gotten around to fitting a silver service into the budget. You can do things just as prettily by pouring coffee in the kitchen and passing the cups on a rolling wagon, or bringing your tray of filled cups into the dining or living room.

Many so-called "coffee tables" are either inadequate in size, or have been sidetracked to other occupations. But if your table is large enough and suitably placed in the living room, you can do all your "entertaining" right there. Trays of small cookies and cakes can be all ready for you to carry in, at the appointed time. And that's all the refreshments you need to do things right: some small cakes and sandwiches, hot biscuits or muffins (if you've got the facilities, they really do add a lot) and plenty of coffee.

BUFFET STYLE

If your coffee table is working under an assumed name and is holding up vases or books or other unrelated objects, you probably have a drop-leaf table in the living room. That, you can set as a buffet and your guests can help themselves. You're still keeping your cozy little group in the living room—and they're having a good time.

LITTLE GOLD CAKES

1½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ tsp. baking powder
⅛ tsp. salt ½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar ½ cup milk
8 egg yolks, well beaten
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream shortening, add sugar slowly, and cream until fluffy. Stir in well-beaten egg yolks. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, stirring well after each addition. Add vanilla extract. Bake in small greased muffin pans in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and frost, if desired. Makes two dozen small cakes.

This Is My Story ★ ★ By Gen. Jonathan Wainwright

By GEN. JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

(Copyright, 1945, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Our questioning by Jap intelligence officers began to get sinister on May 14, 1942, at Manila's University Club. A Jap colonel from Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma's staff came into my room, with aides and an interpreter, and briskly began:

"Now! You will tell us where you buried the money." It was not a request. It was a demand.

I told him that we had destroyed $140,000,000 in Philippine government paper money which had been entrusted to us.

"That is a lie; you buried it on Bataan!" he shouted. "Now where?"

But after a long and repetitious time I convinced him that if there was any money buried on Bataan it was trivial amounts buried by divisional finance officers. He became visibly upset because, I learned later, the Japs were then in the process of retiring all U. S. and Philippine government currency and issuing worthless paper money of their own—invasion currency.

"Well, now, the silver currency," the colonel demanded at length. "This you have buried in Manila Bay. Where?"

"I don't know," I said.

They kept after me for a long time on this. "I don't know . . . I don't know," I finally said with great weariness. "I had nothing to do with its burial. All I know is that it was taken out to sea and dumped, God knows where."

After an interminable period, the subject was dropped for that day. The new questions were directed at me by an officer from Homma's tactical section.

He wanted to know what I thought of the caliber of Jap troops. I told him what I sincerely believed, even made it up in the form of a memorandum at his request. This was my memorandum:

(This is the 25th article in Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's own story.)

"To Whom It May Concern:

"Having been requested by Japanese military authority to record my impressions of the Japanese army the following is submitted:

"(a) Higher commanders and senior staff officers — efficient, well trained, tenacious of purpose and possessed of a high degree of military education.

Efficient Fighters

"(b) Subordinate Officers and Soldiers—Physically fit, vigorous, brave and determined to a degree that verges on fanaticism. Well trained, possessed of a high degree of individual initiative; not very good rifle shots, and supplied with an insufficient amount of ammunition to carry on prolonged fire fight without replenishment. Junior officers and men seem to be able to maintain themselves in the field with a minimum of organizational and individual equipment, a characteristic that American and European Armies might well emulate.

"(c) Field Artillery and Aviation—Very active, very efficient, and very accurate in fire and bombing as was amply demonstrated on Bataan and Corregidor.

"(d) Equipment—Viewed from our standards, most of the Japanese equipment looks crude, but it is undoubtedly efficient and is amply provided. I do not think much of the Infantry rifle. It is too long, too small in caliber, and too slow in action. A semi-automatic rifle is far superior to it.

"(e) General—I have observed the Japanese Army to be a highly organized, efficient and well-trained body, capable of prolonged action with an ample supply of all military necessities."

The new questioners were eager to learn everything about our dispositions on Bataan and our hoped-for prolonged defense of Corregidor. Naturally, I told them nothing of any military importance.

My answers about our defense plans became so noncomittal after a time that they turned away from me in disgust and went to work on Brig. Gen. Lewis Beebe, who was just as airy in his replies. They met their stupendous stumbling block, however, in Maj. Tom Dooley, my aide.

"I dunno," Tom would say, and sometimes vary it with "Dam' if I know," or "Nobody ever told me anything about that." In sheer exasperation, the Jap colonel finally got very red in the face and bawled:

"I don't see how anybody as stupid as you can be an aide to a general! You don't know anything!"

First Chuckle

The Japs stomped out of the room and we had our first chuckle in weeks.

Questioning took up a considerable part of our days at Manila, but there were idle periods when we were left to our own devices, to thoughts of our homes on the other side of the earth, of the men and nurses still on Corregidor whose position was made so terribly precarious by the determination of a few hotheads on Negros.

My roommate, Beebe, and I, as well as Pugh, Dooley, Carroll, and my staff men who drifted back from their surrender appeal missions got up each morning at 6:30 and were served with a modest breakfast, which so soon later would have looked like a king's feast.

After breakfast we were allowed to go up on the roof of the University Club and walk around for 30 minutes. When we returned we could read or play cards, if there was no questioning. The club's old library had been virtually untouched by war, but it was hard to concentrate on books. The estate of captivity simply saturates an American's system, driving out almost all other thoughts and coloring such thoughts as do come through the dismal realization that you are caged.

One day near the end of the last organized resistance in the Philippines we heard a commotion in the street outside. Beebe and I rushed to our window on the second floor and there below us we saw a long column of ragged Americans trudging down Dewey blvd.

With a pang I recognized them. They were the men of Corregidor being marched through the streets in their wretched condition to prove to the silent thousands of natives lining the street that the Jap conquerors were superior in every way.

Tragic Spectacle

It was a heartbreaking spectacle, this strange review of my troops. I learned that they were being led to Bilibid prison, where the Americans were separated from the Filipinos and sent to Cabanatuan while the Filipinos went to O'Donnell.

Among the marchers, with his chin in the air, was Chaplain John K. Borneman, a valiant soldier of God and the United States. Col. Borneman was to report to me later that he had to witness 12 murders of U. S. Army officers at Cabanatuan, 12 murders which followed sadistic beatings lasting 24 hours.

He also reported that another chaplain, Col. Alfred C. Oliver, was beaten pitilessly for days. They broke Col. Oliver's neck eventually, but somehow he survived. He must go through the rest of his life with his head trussed in a high leather collar.

Our food stuck in our throats that day we saw the men of Corregidor march past our windows. With this in mind, and the memory of Gen. Francisco's whispered revelations about Camp O'Donnell, I addressed a letter to Gen. Homma's headquarters.

I begged Homma to send a radio message to President Roosevelt, in my name, asking that a ship be dispatched at once to the Philippines with food, clothing and medical supplies for American and Filipino prisoners of war. I told Homma I had been informed reliably that Americans and Filipinos were dying at the rate of 300 a day at O'Donnell, from malnutrition and for want of proper medical care, and that by the end of the year every man in that camp would be dead.

I gave the letter to Lt. Uramura, and every day for many days after that I asked him if he had heard from Homma. But all he would say was an infuriating "It is under consideration." In time I knew with a feeling of utter helplessness that the message would never be sent.

(Monday: Gen. Wainwright is moved to Tarlac Prison, and the brutality of the Japs is stepped up.)

Men of the 101st Airborne Division, now at Ft. Meyer, Va., are about to start on the Eighth Victory Loan Drive—and they'll be driving the cars formerly belonging to Adolf Hitler (right) and Herman Goering to drum up sales. The division captured the cars at Berchtesgaden. Each is a Mercedes-Benz with armor-plated body.

Pleating

Emerging from wartime hibernation, ruffles take up a beautifying role in lingerie trim. Pat Dunlap, CBS star, models a pale yellow negligee, its simple lines delicately squared with double rows of accordion pleating in gentian blue.

Tragedy

Three RAF fliers lost their lives when their Dakota bomber crashed into this lawn shortly after they took off from Croydon Airport, near London, on a routine flight to their base in Hampshire. The wrecked plane plowed up the greensward but no civilian was injured.

> WITHOUT impairing the efficient operation of all the functions of the government, I have steadily and without pressing on in that direction. This policy has encouraged enterprise, made possible the highest rate of wages which have ever existed, returned large profits, brought to the homes of the people the greatest economic benefits they ever enjoyed, and given to the country as a whole an unexampled era of prosperity."

THE PEOPLE ACT

THERE COMES a time in the history of even free democracies when the PEOPLE should take the principles of their government in their own hands and in no uncertain terms warn the Executive, his appointees and Congress that in this country the people are the residuum of all ultimate power.

On the domestic front in the U. S. A. the time has come for the PEOPLE in mass meetings assembled EVERYWHERE to follow the lead of the movement in Minnesota, where there has just been formed the Minnesota People's Political Action Committee.

This People's Political Action Committee is made up of all groups, of persons who are FOR THE U. S. A.

HERE ARE SOME of the sterling American principles which this committee has adopted at its first meeting, as reported by Representative Knutson in the Congressional Record:

After a preamble that avers it is necessary from time to time for the plain people to "examine tendencies" and "growing pressure groups who seek to control the government" for purely selfish purposes the platform outlines these dangers that confront us:

"1—The increasing demand that business of the nation be turned over to politicians to administer and manage.

"2—The accompanying growth of bureaucracy with its withering effect upon individual initiative, ambition and character.

"3—The continued belief in high places that public spending is a panacea for domestic problems.

"4—The centralization of government in Washington with its usurpation of rights of States and communities.

"5—The idea that the government ought to support all citizens regardless of their unwillingness to support themselves.

"6—The growing power of group organizations to interfere with the individual freedom of citizens."

IN THOSE six declarations we have the very core of the sinister dangers that challenge our form of government and way of life.

These tendencies that are slowly throttling us come from Moscow, and even from Hitler's and Mussolini's recent slave states.

The Minnesota People's Political Action Committee not only points out the evils that threaten us but it also points to the cure, which is, mainly, to be found in a reaffirmation of the LITERAL LANGUAGE of the Bill of Rights; a government of laws, not of men; neither organizations of business nor labor should be allowed to stifle the freedom of the individual; that government is best which governs least (pure Jeffersonian democracy); keep the free enterprise system alive at all risks; a continuation of "The American way of life," MILITANT OPPOSITION to the CIO-PAC (the Hillman international group).

It is such movements as these that hearten us with the belief that the traditional, fundamental American soul is still alive.

Let us have a national people's political action committee modelled on the Minnesota Committee—and KEEP THE PROFESSIONAL POLITICIANS OUT OF IT.

We have not voted "yes" on all the Socialistic legislation that is being put through at Washington.

Therefore let the PEOPLE speak out, using their constitutional privilege of protest in the Minnesota manner.

How many times do I love again?
Tell me how many beads there are
In a silver chain
Of evening rain,
Unravell'd from the tumbling main,
And threading the eye of a yellow star:
So many times do I love again.

AT TIMES my girl friend refers to me as "Ned." I don't like this name. But I am unquestionably too touchy on this subject. I even squawk about the first name my mother gave me, which is Edgar. Anyway, I heard my girl friend say over the phone: "Ned and I are going to a first night tomorrow night." When she was through talking I said: "I'm not going to that first night." When asked why, I said: "I just can't take it. I have gone through the blood, sweat and tears of sitting out eight first nights this season and it has me down. Never have I seen such a curiously inept collection of dramatic atrocities as has been recently offered to the public. Tomorrow night I am going to the Copocabana to see Joe E. Lewis." My girl friend said: "Why you have seen Joe E. Lewis and the Samba Sirens 18 times this season." I said pettishly: "Who said anything about the Samba Sirens? Anyway, I am going to keep on going to see Joe E. Lewis until Jimmy Durante or a good show comes to town. No more first nights. After this I go on the second night when the reports are in."

HOW TO KISS A LADY: A young woman of Chicago says she has found the average man is sadly lacking in a knowledge of the etiquette of kissing. She says the crude approach to kissing practice by the great majority of males is to be greatly deplored. For our Horses & Women files she sends a clipping from an old etiquette book entitled, "How to Kiss a Lady." It follows: "The gentleman should be taller than the lady he intends to kiss. Take her right hand in yours and draw her gently to you; pass your left hand over her right shoulder diagonally down across the back, under her left arm; press her to your bosom. At the same time she will throw her head back and you will have nothing to do but lean a little forward and press your lips to hers. Dont pounce down on her like a hungry hawk upon an innocent dove. Fold the damsel gently in your arms and by a sweet pressure upon the mouth, revel in the blissfulness of your situation."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Have you ever been to the Isle of Capri? A—Yes. A beautiful spot. But I like Sorrento better. Q—Who popularized the song "Treat a Woman Like a Drum"? A—Couldn't say. All I know is that Hildegarde sings it regularly. Q—The last line in a famous Broadway stage hit was "Count it." Stogie says you can't name the play. A—Easy question. Play was "The Dummy," in which Ernest Truex starred. He portrayed a youngster who aided in the capture of some kidnapers and was to receive the $10,000 reward offered. He was asked: "What is the first thing you are going to do after they give you the $10,000?" He answered: "Count it."

POPULARITY: During the war reports from overseas indicated our troops were very popular with the young women in the countries in which they were stationed. History tells us it was ever thus. In 1847, when the U. S. troops invaded California, a Mexican composer wrote a song about the popularity of our boys with the opposite sex. The song was in Spanish. A translation follows:

"Ay! Here come the Yankees!
Ay! They're here, you see.
Come and let's dispense with
All formality.
Already the senoritas
Speak English with finesse,
'Kiss me!' say the Yankees
The girls all answer: 'Yes!'"

PLEASE NOTE: From a group of U. S. Navy men stationed at Tacloban, Leyte, Philippine Islands, I have received the following comment: "Your column mailed from the States is read here regularly. We have come to the conclusion that you know a little about horses but not much about women. But keep trying."

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc. Reproduction prohibited

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—One time I was beefing to "Bugs" Bear, the famous humorist, about having to work too hard and Mr. Baer retorted:

Robert E. Hannegan

"Do you know any easier way to make a living?"

Offhand, I was unable to think of an answer, but nevertheless—this being a free country—I continued beefing.

Among those assailed by my pitiful moans was a fellow named Robert E. Hannegan, who identified himself as the Postmaster General.

They tell me this is a very good job, although personally I would not care to have my tongue gluey from licking all those stamps.

The reason I got a chance to wail at him was that Mr. Hannegan made the strategic error of asking how I was doing. This was all the opening I needed. For 20 minutes I spurted tears until Mr. Hannegan began looking about for his rubbers.

"You wring my heart," he said, "But let me tell you something. When I first took this job with the postoffice I thought I was being overworked, too.

"You may not know it, but there are 42,000 postmasters in this country. And the commission of each and every one of them has to be signed by the Postmaster-General, of which I am it.

"The law does not permit any rubber-stamping. It has to be done in my own fair hand. Postmasters are changing all the time—many are quite old when they get the job, so the mortality is high—which means I have to sign more than 100 new commissions a week.

"My fingers used to get cramped and sore from signing. I began pitying myself. Then one day, while moaning the loudest, a thought came to me. Every one of those commissions had another signature on top of mine.

"They had been signed personally by a party who has to do a thousand times more signing than I—Herry S. Truman!"

★ ★ ★

INCIDENTALLY we have no postmistresses in this country. And don't bother writing that you have gone into many a postoffice and found a dame in charge. It makes no difference whether she is male or female—nice sentence that—the official postoffice designation is "postmaster."

★ ★ ★

MR. HANNEGAN said his name was pretty long to write out thousands of times but that he was consoled every time he thought of the Secretary of Labor.

Imagine, he said, having to write "Lewis B. Schwellenbach" over and over!

The fellow whose name I would like to borrow if I had to sign my name continually is chief correspondent of the Central News Agency of China—Dave Lu!

★ ★ ★

POSTMASTER GENERAL HANNEGAN said he is going to try to pry some dough out of Congress this session to modernize and refurbish the postoffice department.

"Everybody takes the efficient handling of the mails for granted," he said. "When we talk about needing new equipment they retort that we seem to be doing all right. Do you know that we have mail trucks that have been in operation since 1915?

"Many of the postoffices are shabby and dilapidated. This isn't right. The postoffice, properly, should be the show place of a town. The postoffice is the closest many of our citizens ever get to the government. It should be something they could be proud of."

NO COMMENT NECESSARY DEPARTMENT: The OPA in official document 43811, part 1351, revising maximum price regulations for potatoes and onions, decrees as follows:

"For dry opinions, packed in 10-pound sacks or smaller, the country shipper may add 15 cents per 50 pounds."

Fifteen cents seems a fair boost for dry opinions. Most of those you get here are all wet.

STATE SENATOR JOE BLYTHE of North Carolina has just hung a new name on Happy Chandler of Kentucky, which bids fair to stick.

When Happy, who is also baseball's high commissioner, was down in Charlotte, N. C., Blythe introduced him around as "the Bishop of Baseball." Happy asked why the Bishop.

"Because," said Blythe, "a bishop's job is to keep people in line, to make 'em behave!"

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—Marian is a fading and famous actress whose frequent flights of temperament have enlivened many a back stage session and caused many a director to uproot his hair by the handful. She is colorful copy offstage and usually manages considerable fireworks on. And her foibles are many.

Miss Kilgallen

But of all her tricks the weirdest is her insistence upon always "living her role" to the limit. Cafe socialites will not soon forget the slightly ill-making spectacle of Marian, her spreading form encased in coy pink ruffles, playing the role of a Southern belle in public when she was cast as one in a show—or the time when, as a woman of the world, she affected a foot-long cigaret holder and much belladonna in the orbs.

Well, at last Marian has come a cropper. She still manages to get roles through play-angel beaux and producers who were old loves, and recently she was offered the starring part in a new play—the finest opportunity of her whole career.

But Marian, who insists upon living her part, can't take it. It's the role of a nun!

ALL HER girl friends are inclined to tsk-tsk about Winnie—so beautiful, and so foolish

HEY! LOOKUT, CHIEF—HAIN'T THAT OL' GRAMP BEELER IN BACK OF THAT WISTARIA?
HE'S TH' GRANDPA OF ALL TH' BEELER BOYS, AN' BROKE 'EM ALL IN TO BE OUTLAWS!
IN TH' OL' DAYS HE USED TO BRAID PART OF HIS BEARD AN' PUT BEAR GREASE ON IT TO CLEAN HIS GUN BARRELS!
WHO ARE YOU? I NEVER SAW YE BEFORE IN MY LIFE!
HOMER IS THE 7000 TH BEELER BOY
Gene Ahern
11-3

Everyone feels that with her natural good looks and a little effort she could have been a star.

A couple of seasons ago a movie company snatched her from Broadway, although she'd done very little here, and paid her $500 a week to stick around Hollywood for a few months and learn the business.

But Winnie kicked the opportunity out the window.

Finally the studio decided to give her up as a very bad job and dropped her option. But just before they dropped it they sent her, with a group of other starlets, to entertain and dance with the officers on a battleship anchored off the West Coast.

★ ★ ★

AT THE DANCE Winnie met a handsome young officer who fell madly in love with her, as so many lads in the Times sq. sector had done. She fell for him, too—and now he's divorcing his wife (from whom he had been estranged for some time) so they can be married at the earliest possible moment.

Well, it turns out he isn't just another gent. It turns out (and the girls who are cluck-clucking over Winnie's lost career don't know this) that he is one of the wealthiest young men in the country, and a generous one at that. When she marries she will become one of the most "social" young matrons in the country.

None of which would have happened to Winnie if she'd been studiously practicing her acting on the day the studio was rounding up the beautiful-but-dumb to send to the fleet's ports!

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3—Sylvia Sidney really steps me. When she was a star she was plump and a little on the dowdy side on and off the screen. Now that she's making a comeback she looks 10 years younger, her figure would make a model envious and she is one of the best dressed women in Hollywood.

Saw a hat on her the other day I would like to have snatched. So no wonder the gal is on her way again in a big way after her hit in "Blood on the Sun."

Sylvia Sidney

Hal Wallis has borrowed her from Cagney for the third role with Robert Young and Ann Richards in "The Searching Wind." It's a surprise that Jimmy gave his consent for the loan-out, since I'd heard he had a story for Sylvia. But combination of the Lillian Hellman hit plus Wallis as the producer, plus Lee Garmes at the camera won't hurt her any.

★ ★ ★

GLAD I NEVER fell for those stories Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall wouldn't make pictures together after becoming Mr. and Mrs. in private life. Bogey and Baby are too hot at the box office to be permanently separated and sure enough here comes another for them. A switch in casting at Warners puts the Bogarts in "Stallion Road" as the co-stars in place of Errol Flynn and Ida Lupino, previously assigned.

★ ★ ★

LENORE ULRIC, one of the brightest stars ever to shine on Broadway, has signed for a big role in "Notorious" with Ingrid Bergman and Cary Grant. It's a break for the fans that Lenore has decided to take this fling in the movies, for there was never anyone quite like her when her flame was burning brightest in "Kiki" and "Lulu Belle."

★ ★ ★

IF INGRID BERGMAN, Ginger Rogers and Claudette Colbert will accept the leading roles in "Titania" they will get a trip to Paris and a percentage of the movie. Sam Woods, who has refused to accept more movies for the rest of the year, is concentrating on "The Land Is Bright" and "Titania." He will do "The Land Is Bright" first and then go to Paris for the latter.

★ ★ ★

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: THE ROBERT YOUNGS welcomed a baby girl early yesterday. Although they had sort of hoped for a boy, the young lady is so cute they're keeping her. This makes the fourth girl and Bob isn't even going to be mad if they have Eddie Cantor jokes—not after seeing her, she's that pretty. Annabella has received word that Tyrone Power is on his way home.

JANE RUSSELL is in the East rooting for her husband, Bob Waterfield, who is playing football with the Cleveland Rams; Ely Culbertson, who once played a hot game of bridge and gave that up for world politics, has given that up for lectures on the atomic bomb in Chicago; the "Spellbound" preview-premiere brought out all the glamor again. Three thousand fans in the bleachers cheered everybody, they were in such a good humor. Spotted in the audience were the Gregory Pecks (it was a big night for him), Clark Gable in dinner clothes (must have been an uncomfortable night for that outdoor boy) with Dolly O'Brien, Jimmy Stewart with Anita Colby, Lana Turner with Rory Calhoun, the Casey Robinsons (the beautiful Tamara Toumanova) and, of course, David Selznick.

CATHERINE McLEOD should have been a press agent. She signs her autographs "Catherine McLeod—soon to be seen in Frank Borzage's 'I've Always Loved You,' a Republic picture!" Gladys George heads for Broadway to star in "You Only Twinkle Once," a Hollywood drama on the serious side being stage-directed by Elia Kazan.

Boston After Dark

THE HALLOWED name of Will Rogers, America's cowboy philosopher, gets no more than occasional mention in the public prints these days . . . "All I know is what I read in the newspapers!" Mr. Rogers was wont to say in preface.

★ ★ ★

LIKE THE MOURNED MR. ROGERS, this department derives most of its knowledge of current events from what it reads in the newspapers . . . All kinds of newspapers, including the horse-racing sheets . . . We were reading the Morning Telegraph, a racing paper published in New York but circulated widely in New England, a dozen hours or so after it spilled off its presses on Thursday of this week, the day before yesterday.

★ ★ ★

WHAT WE SAW in a routine line in the Morning Telegraph under the heading "The Morning Telegraph Past Performances" gave us pause . . . It was a routine note, indeed . . . It appeared nine lines below the fold of the paper on Page six of the Rockingham edition, and it read as follows:

"WAYNE L. was and is a horse . . . He is a 2-year-old brown colt, and WAYNE L. was entered in the second race at Rockingham Thursday against eight other colts and fillies of his class, thoroughbreds valued by their owners at $5000" . . . After giving WAYNE L.'s partial genealogy for three generations, and the name of his owner (L. F. Lanigan) and his trainer (W. C. McDermott), the Morning Telegraph's Past Performance department disclosed the record of WAYNE L.'s last race at Rockingham Park.

★ ★ ★

WAYNE L. finished second in the second race at Rockingham on Oct. 16, but he was beaten two lengths by a horse called Detach only to be "awarded first money" . . . It is that comment "awarded first money" which intrigues this corner, as it undoubtedly will intrigue the 2,000,000 (estimated) habitual or occasional horse-players in New England . . . Wayne L. was not "awarded first money" right away . . . A daily double was settled first . . . On Oct. 17 (or "17th" in Morning Telegraph style) the front pages of our Boston newspapers were enlivened by the fabulous story of sudden riches falling into the laps of three horse-players who wagered $2 on a daily double combination of Mighty Tough and Detach, winners respectively of the first and second races at Rockingham Park . . .

★ ★ ★

THAT PARTICULAR DAILY DOUBLE rated first page attention because it happened to be the largest daily double ever paid at a New England track, and amounted to some unprecedented sum as $8618, or, $8116, or $8861 and let us not quibble . . . One of the lucky holders of a daily double ticket on the combination of Mighty Tough and Detach said that he played the combination because he had just lost his job and it was mighty tough to be detached from a payroll at that particular time . . . Another winner preferred to remain anonymous . . . Another winner had very little color . . . But the newspapers and the Internal Revenue collector kissed him anyway . . . and the race bulletins carried the story of the bonanza and the news traveled on the wire services that a huge daily double had evolved from the golden run-around at Rockingham and the lucky winners were lucky indeed because only once in the history of American horse-racing had there been a daily double of larger numerals.

★ ★ ★

"LUCKY" WINNERS did we say? . . . Well say they were lucky . . . Because Detach, the horse which ran and won that second race to complete the highest daily double in New England racing history, had no right to win that race . . . He won in the mutuels and in the daily doubles, but he didn't win in the official sense of the word . . . The Morning Telegraph's "past performances" clinches that! . . . Because his purse was taken away . . . All we are asking is "why?" . . . Rockingham's explanation appears on Page 5.)

Wilson's Wise Word for N. England Horse Bettors

By AUSTEN LAKE

DAVE WILSON is an angular gent with straw-colored hair, a bland blue eye and a cigaret hung habitually on his under lip, "King David" they sometimes call him and sometimes just "Hayhead." His temperament is placid, just suited to the nerve strain of handicapping horses, rising betimes by the light o' the morning moon and going to bed with the owls.

Austen Lake

Some mornings Dave rises before the first opalescent pinks kiss the East, plasters down his thin, blond cowlick, shrugs into a windbreak and shoves off for Rockingham. In the drafty grandstand he perches with his gnome-like fellowship, the tabbers and clockers and clicks his watch as the resident giddyaps go by like chestnut ghosts.

His is no lollipop life or leisured pastime of goggling at the dobbins, or listening to the lazy lingo of the stables, or going South with the geese and coming back with the robins. For Wilson's work begins after the crowds pass down the spillways, the cashiers count the day's catch, the little monkey-men strip off their colored silks and the trainers reward their gambling steeds with forkfuls of timothy hay and bundles of carrot tops.

There are audits to keep, form charts to correct, a mass of information to coordinate from a dozen tracks around the land. For nothing is so dead as yesterday's race results, nothing so cold as old losses.

Five "Dont's" For Bettors

I TRUST I CAN CONSCIENTOUSLY state without dipping a knee to a mere circulation prod for these twin journals that Wilson comes closer to being a horse-scholar and a greater humanitarian than any handicapper I know. He is sincere in saying that horse gambling, at best, is flimsy pursuit for folk intent only on profits and offers some solid words for Mr. & Mrs. Two-Bucks, viz.:

(1) Do not chase your losses by impulsive betting; (2) Don't listen to random tips, but decide before you go to the track which horses you wish to play and then don't let anybody tout you off. (3) Take a limited amount of money, what you feel you can afford to lose and when it's gone quit for the day. (4) Don't bet every race. Wait till you think you have a "solid" horse and then usually bet place or show. (5) Avoid the local tout shops for advice. They are often chump traps.

"There are 100 ways a favorite can lose," warns David. "It might get jammed in the gate, cast a shoe, get kicked, bust a cinch, become pocketed, toss the jockey. Those are only a basic few.

"Take the English horse, Hilka," relates Dave. "It was imported some years before the war with expectations of a grand cleanup. It went to the post for its first race such a favorite that there was hardly any odds at all. And, sure enough, there it came—two lengths, four, six and finally eight with only a few jumps to the wire . . . then suddenly the jockey tumbled off."

Wilson estimates that perhaps one career-horse gambler in 10,000 winds up with a real profit. The rest rummage around the track, flush today and broke tomorrow, borrowing a little stake to keep on. "A gambler that I once saw win $300,000 on single race," he says, "came up to me at Hialeah a few seasons later and asked for a loan of 50 cents.

Horse gamblers are notoriously free with their funds and no professional bettor ever refuses a flat-busted acquaintance a few sawbucks. It's a freemasonry based on the knowledge that, almost inevitably, the affluent party of the moment will have to ask somebody else to bank him for a fresh start later on. It's a curious "share-the-wealth" system.

It's Either a Sport Or a Business

"ONE OF THE SMARTEST gamblers I ever knew is 'Dude' Allard," says Dave. "He's a shy, retiring little man who clocks and handicaps his own horses and may not bet more than a dozen times during a race meet. But when he does he puts down a large wad on some horse and bets it conservatively to show. He knows the horse may have an even chance to win, but he shaves his risk to a minimum, maybe getting 30c on each dollar bet."

Even that system has its element of risk. For the writer remembers only too poignantly the enormous sum of "smart" money bet on Discovery at Suffolk Downs some years ago. In the supposed mediocre field Discovery "couldn't lose" and the Wise Men flocked up from New York to bet their bank rolls on Ole Diz—not to win, not to place, but to show.

And he showed 'em all right—by going into one of his copyrighted sulks and wabbling home in sixth place, while the Wise Men tore out their whiskers, spent the night in haystacks and robbed the neighbor's henroosts for breakfast.

"Racing is a business and sport," says David. "It's business for the owners, trainers, jocks and stockholders. And it's sport for the public, as attendance figures prove. But anybody in the latter class who attempts to make it a livelihood is a born sucker and anybody who bets more than he can afford is a hopeless chump."

The writer recalls the sage word of Charley Connors, the mild, honest little man who was the best race commissioner this state ever had. Charley estimated that the betting public lost about half of its liquid gambling capital every time it visited a horse track. He figured that about one-fifth of the daily handle, or total money run through the parimutuels, was tangible cash brought in the pockets of the public to the saucer. So if the day's handle is $500,000, one-fifth is $100,000, or the actual money brought in by the people and run through the wringers again and again.

Of this 100 Gs the state and track take 10 per cent, plus about 1½ per cent breakage. Ten per cent of $500,000 is only $50,000. But 50 Gs is one-half of $100,000. Q.E.D.

So candid Dave advises New England to "take it easy," to bet modestly, lose less, maybe make more and enjoy itself. "It's fun if you don't let it get you," he advises. Curious cuss, for one who makes his living by the mad merry-go-round. Don't you think?

Yale 0, Green 0 at Half

By JOE CASHMAN

YALE BOWL, Nov. 3—Yale and Dartmouth, whose grid rivalry has produced the most memorable of Ivy league grid thrills over the past 60 years, engaged in the 29th game of their series here under leaden skies and before an estimated 45,000 crowd today, largest since 1941.

Nothing particular was at stake. Dartmouth had lost three in a row before chalking up its first victory of the season over Syracuse last week.

Yale had dropped games to Holy Cross and Columbia before bounding back against Cornell last Saturday.

But tradition made this game one highly coveted by each side.

Yale was a slight favorite. Yale always is a favorite over Dartmouth.

The Big Green waited 50 years for its first win over the Blue. That V-day arrived just 10 years ago this fall. Since then the Indians from Hanover have taken six out of 10 games from the Elis. But even to this day the public considers that Dartmouth has two strikes on it whenever it enters Yale Bowl.

Coach Howie Odell of Yale started the same eleven that opened against Cornell last week.

Coach Tuss McLaughry reported that several of his Dartmouths were far from being in the best shape, but that all his first stringers would be able to start.

FIRST PERIOD

Dartmouth won the toss and received. Holt carried Wilkie's boot back 22 yards to his 30. Holt, shaking off several Elis, went to first down on his 45. Pass, Frost to Holt, gave the Green first down on the Yale 29. Frost fumbled, Hoops recovered, but the misplay cost the Green 10 yards. A long pass failed and Frost got off a punt which hit and stuck on the Yale two. Walker booted out to the 40, with Frost carrying back to the 32.

The Indians again failed through the air and Frost kicked again, his boot going outside on the Yale 13. Rain began to fall and Kirk, in Yale's first rush of the game, swept end for nine yards. Penn found a hole and went to his 35. Kirk picked up seven. A short pass, Dakos to Hoops, gave Yale first down at midfield.

A reverse cost Yale four yards but Kirk got these back with five added. Yale tried to make a yard on fourth down on the Green 40 and succeeded, thanks to Bill Penn's buck. A Dakos-to-Hoop pass ate up 9. Dakos was smeared back on his 42 in trying to get off another pass. So Walker punted into the end zone and the Green took over on its 20. Three rushes gave Dartmouth 10 yards and a first down as the period ended.

Score—Yale 0, Dartmouth 0.

SECOND PERIOD

O'Brien replaced Swanson in the Dartmouth backfield. And Becker and Miller replaced Holt and Albrecht, respectively. Frost lost five yards. Then the Green was penalized five yards. Frost, on a fake pass play, raced 22 yards for a first down on the 42. The Green was given another five-yard penalty.

Art Fitzgerald, a Notre Dame transfer, took Kirk's place in the Yale backfield as Frost dropped back and kicked to Fitz on the Yale 24. O'Brien returned a Walker punt to his 40. Frost gained nine on an end sweep and on fourth down, Frost on a quarterback sneak went over for first down on the Yale 48.

Yale intercepted a Miler pass but Yale was penalized five yards for off-side on the play. Frost, back to pass, was nailed on the midfield stripe. O'Brien fumbled and Fusilli recovered for Yale on its 48. Kirk went back to the Yale backfield and Sullivan supplanted Becker for Dartmouth.

An exchange of punts found Yale in possession on its own 24. A Dakos to Walker pass was good for 11 yards. A long pass by Dakos failed. A short pass, Dakos to Hoopes, gave the Elis first down on its 47. Two passes failed. So did a third pass and Walker punted to Frost who was downed on his 18. Yale recovered a fumble on the Green 20, but didn't have time to put the ball in play before the half ended.

Score at the Half—Yale 0, Dartmouth 0.

FAVOR PENN STATE

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 3 (INS) — Penn State's Nittany Lions were slight favorites to topple Ossie Solem's Syracuse eleven in the annual struggle between the teams today.

John Quinn Spikes Rumor

John Quinn, general manager of the Boston Braves, spiked the rumor that he would be appointed righthand man to Commr. A. B. Happy Chandler when he returned from the major league draft meeting in Chicago.

"I've never talked with Chandler about the job," commented Quinn, "I've always wanted to be associated with a club that had a chance to be a pennant winner, and that's the kind of a job I have with the Braves. It was an honor to be mentioned for such a job, but I was never approached on it."

Queried about the next manager of the team, Quinn said, "we probably will decided on our manager for next season in the next 10 days." He gave no inkling on who the manager would be, but he sounded as though it would not be Del Bissonnette, who succeeded Bob Coleman just after midseason.

The names of Bill Terry, Bill Dickey, Dick Bartell, Al Lopez, Rabbit Maranville have been mentioned for the job along with a host of others.

Looks Like Cinch For Army to Win

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 3 (INS)—Army's power-laden football team, unbeaten in its last 14 starts, today ruled a prohibitive favorite to swamp Villanova at Michie Stadium today.

The Cadets, led by their two all-America backfield greats, Glenn Davis and Felix "Doc" Blanchard, are expected to roll up a heavy score at the expense of the thrice-beaten Wildcats.

Saugus Will Miss Evans in Lynn Game

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Saugus High School, minus hospitalized Dick Evans, will be biting off another big chunk of competition tonight at Manning Bowl, Lynn, where the Sachems will be attempting another stride toward the Class B title against Lynn English in the only floodlight game on the schoolboy program.

Evans, 155-pound veteran guard, has been in the hospital for a week now with a knee infection that will probably sideline him for the season. Ray Domie will be filling the vacancy.

This tilt will be the carry-over between the Saturday and Sunday programs and it should be a whale of a battle. Coach Dave Lucey, in bowing out at Saugus, has put together another nifty club. His boys have dropped only one game this season (Beverly, 7-6) but a scoreless deadlock against Lynn English has knocked them off the top of the Class B ratings. But meanwhile, Saugus has whipped Watertown, Chelsea, Amesbury and Revere in its pursuit of the championship.

Saugus has been very fortunate in having Capt. Bruce Waybright in the backfield. Coach Lucey insists that Waybright's blocking (and he'd rather block than carry the ball) is the closest to college ranks that he's ever seen. He'll be bowling the Classicals over for Tom Sheehan, Charlie Sampson and Cliff "Cushy" Harris tonight.

Classical, rated as the "dark horse" of the Class A race, has dropped decisions to Peabody and Everett—but in both games, the Lynn team made very creditable showings.

Coach Bill Joyce, entertaining ideas of retiring from the coaching ranks after 26 years, has developed a nifty passing attack with blond Don Mioski the kingpin in the T. Mioski, the only senior in a backfield of George Pike, Harry Agganis and Ed Russell, will have a nifty pair of targets in Stan Britton, 6-foot 3-inch converted tackle and Deke Jordan, veteran colored end.

Tomorrow afternoon, local fans will get a peek at Coach Buzz Harvey's Nashua High team, playing against Revere.

HOOP, JR. TO RACE AGAIN

MIAMI, Fla, Nov. 3 (AP)—Hoop, Jr., winner of the Kentucky Derby, will come out of retirement next spring and return to the racing wars, it was announced yesterday by his owner, Fred W. Hooper.

Rovers Prove Easy for Pics

The Boston Olympics opened the defense of their Eastern Amateur Hockey title, at the Boston Garden last night by whipping the New York Rovers, 7 to 3, before 12,663 fans.

Before the game, Tom Dugan, Hec Rousseau, Frank Sullivan, Cliff Thompson, Gil Priestly, Jack Liston, Cy Beigler, Al Baranawski, Jack Harris and Ben Bertine, all former members of the Olympics, who have served in the armed services, paid a tribute to the memory of Art Shaugnessy and Paul Warburton, killed in action in the Pacific area.

Pete Babando, scored two of the Boston goals, one in the second period and another in the final period, one of the wildest seen at the Garden in a long time. Other Boston scores were Joe Schmidt, Paul Ronty, Ed Barry, recently discharged from the Coast Guard, Bob Schnurr and Joe Schertzel.

Gus Schwartz tallied twice for the losers with Church Russell scoring the other.

In the first period, Mark Marquess, who played a whale of a game as did goalie Harvey Bennett, was hit over the right eye with a high stick, and required one stitch.

The Rovers and Pics play their second game at the Garden tonight starting at 8:30.

Brockton Given Edge at Malden

By ARTHUR SULLIVAN

MALDEN STADIUM, Malden, Nov. 3—Brockton High seeking its seventh straight win tried to overcome a Malden "On Its Own Field Jinx" here today before a capacity crowd ob about 7500 fans.

Both teams were at full strength, with Malden's outstanding guard, Andy MacDonald, returning to the lineup after a week's absence.

Brockton, undefeated and untied, entered the game a slight favorite to whip the Golden Tornado despite the jinx.

FIRST PERIOD

Brockton High, unable to gain anything by running, suddenly took to the air and, with Bob Dupuy pegging the ball, ate up 53 yards. Taking the ball on its own 47 after Carroll punted, Dupuy passed to the Brockton end, Goeres, who reached the 16. Bertocci carried to the seven, then Dupuy reached the four as the period ended scoreless.

Score—Brockton 0, Malden 0.

Waltham Scores On Freak Play

The Big Red of Everett, undefeated in four games this season, met a lighter Waltham elevn this afternoon before more than 5000 fans at Waltham athletic field.

The Denny Gildea Everett team enroute to the Class A championship took the field a slight favorite.

FIRST PERIOD

Waltham kicked off to the Everett 28. Everett went back to punt, but Pete Maggio's center pass soared into the end zone, where it was pounced upon by Waltham guard Bill Frary for a touchdown.

Dick Stumpf kicked the point. Waltham threatened again a few plays later. Roy lateraled to Stampf, who tossed a 22-yard pass Oulette on the Everett 37. An offside penalty halted Waltham on the 25, where Everett took over. After a first down, Fran Merenda spun through right for 62 yards and a touchdown for Everett. A pass, Coggio to Merenda equalized the count at 7-7.

Score: Everett 7, Waltham 7.

SECOND PERIOD

After three minutes of play, Everett scored again following a 52-yard cakewalk, Merenda and Romboli went to the Waltham 48. Sam D'Agostino, in two rushes, brought the ball to the 32. On the next play, Art Coggio tossed a pass to end Frank Lionette for the second score. Goggio's dropkick attempt for the point failed. A series of plays later, Waltham's fullback Ernie Zeno, flipped a pass to Normie Roy good for 47 yards to the Everett 30-yard line as the half ended.

Score—Everett 13, Waltham 7.

Hunters Awaiting Feathered Targets

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH
Former Instructor of Army Ski Troops

Although ammunition is still scarce, Bay State hunters are not particularly perturbed about this situation—it's the lack of feathered targets that has 'em worried at the moment . . . The birds, we believe, will soon send forth the tune of humming wings in normal numbers, while a few wintry blasts and whipping winds should drive in those long-awaited flights of pintails and mallards.

During the past two weeks, after returning to "real life", this writer has contacted and chatted with scores of ardent nimrods, anglers, and wardens, in a speedy survey of the local fishing and hunting front. From our more decipherable notes, here's a thumbnail sketch of the scene:

Gunners in the areas that embrace Newbury, Rowley, Ipswich, Groveland and Georgetown, where 12,000 acres of hunting territory now comprise part of the Parker River Wildlife Refuge, are jammed into small portions of terrain. This over-crowding and concentration of sportsmen will obviously cause the private posting of remaining hunting land . . . Incidentally, we've arrived back to discover that the controversy over the Wildlife Refuge is still boiling—and may simmer through many a summer!

Flocks of geese have been stippling the skies recently, with several flights of fantastic numbers reported heading south over sections of Essex County . . . Hunters have been bagging black ducks near Turkey Hill and Little river, Newbury. The blacks have also been dotting the marshes close to Pine Island here, as well as winging about the harbor areas of the Merrimac and Plum Island rivers.

ANGLING ANGLES: Few striped bass are being taken along the ocean front at Plum Island, Newburyport, and Newbury . . . And although the fall run of this specie has been at a new low this season, a couple of lucky anglers tied into some stripers, weighing from 10 to 30 pounds, at the mouth of the Merrimac, south jetties, to the lower circle in the town of Newbury.

This fishing season has apparently been a topsy-turvy one that produced more anglers than fish! The continued calm weather held back the finny folk, it seems . . . Surf-casters are now breaking their backs—but not filling their creels, and many sportsmen have been wielding their rods from the large beaches at Provincetown and vicinity, still hoping!

NOW YOU TELL ONE!—Larry Stevens, angler extraordinaire of Everett, was among the few lucky lads, having hooked between 300 and 400 stripers this summer and fall! But he ate only one! (Sportsmen: Send in your fishing and hunting oddities to this writer; others will get a kick out of them!)

Yanks Fear Lions' Callihan

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Gus Dorais and his Detroit Lions tuned up at Fens Stadium this morning for tomorrow's imbroglio with the Yanks at Fenway Park, and the cynosure of neighboring eyes was—not Chuck Fenenbock, nor Alex Wojey, nor Bob Westfall but 235-pound Bill Callihan.

Callihan is the captain of the Lions, their block-buster. He's the blocking back and man in motion on offense, plays in the line on defense. He's a former Nebraska U. star serving his seventh season in the league, and the Yanks recall his devastating performance of 1944 when the Lions walloped them, 38-7. His blocking let Frank Sinkwich run wild.

Buff Collins, Yanks scout, was reviewing the Lions-Bears game of last week.

"Callihan threw Luckman for a 10-yard loss on this play," he'd tell the Yanks, "tossed him for a safety on this play."

Callihan was in Luckman's hair so much the Bears vaunted passing and "T" attack netted one TD. (Final score: Lions 16, Bears 10)

"This is the best ball club you've faced all year," Collins concluded, "but you can win it if—."

There are plenty of "ifs" attached to the game. For one thing, several of the Yanks are suffering from minor injuries which may throw them off stride, and today, end Keith Ranspot was so sick there was doubt he'd be able to play at all. There was doubt, too, that Babe Diamancheff's leg injury would stand up under the rough and tumble going.

So eager has been the Purdue all-America, to swing into action that he's been forcing the leg and he was ordered to take it easy today.

But the boys were buoyed by the news Bob Davis would get into action. It was feared his injury in the Pitt game would sideline him for two weeks. Davis is needed to combat Fenenbock's passes.

Mentally, the Yanks are "up" for this crucial test.

Favor Canadiens To Subdue Bruins

By BILL GRIMES

With Bobby Bauer definitely sidelined and the physical condition of Coach "Dit" Clapper and Pat Egan below par, the Bruins will meet Les Canadiens tomorrow night at the Boston Garden.

Despite the fact that the Rossmen have only a tie with the Maple Leafs to show for three starts, the game will be a sellout. A week ago last Wednesday, the Bruins-Blackhawks game, which was played for the American-Record-Advertiser Purple Heart Fund, drew 13,901. And, approximately 5000 who failed to purchase tickets in advance, were turned away.

There may be a few seats on sale today at the Garden. But, that doesn't mean that the ticket-sellers have been holding out. The pasteboards sold today will be those which were not picked up by the season's ticket holders.

Manager Art Ross is disappointed over the physical condition of some of his key men. The loss of Bobby Bauer broke up the Flyers, who, on their pre-war performances, are rated as the No. 1 line. Jack McGill, who is a center ice man by trade, will fill in on right wing for Bauer.

Coach Clapper and Pat Egan have worked out this week but if the going is rugged (and there is every reason to believe it will be) there's no telling how long the veteran defensemen will be able to weather the storm of Flying Frenchmen.

Les Canadiens are off to another flying start. They opened with an 8 to 4 victory over Chicago and on Thursday knocked off the Maple Leafs 4 to 2, which must have been an upset to the Toronto fans, as well as Maj. Conn Smythe.

Although he has added a few new names to his roster, Coach Dick Irvin is banking heavily on the veterans who carried Canadiens through to two consecutive N. H. L. championships and the Stanley Cup in 1943-44.

Big Mike McMahon, who was barred from the N. H. L. last season because he was engaged in an essential business, Kenny Reardon, brother of Bruin Terry, Joe Benoit, Jimmy Peters and Billy Reay, are the newcomers with the Flying Frenchmen.

Ruggiero Scores for Irish in First

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 3 — Eighty-three thousand customers jammed Cleveland's municipal stadium this afternoon at two unbeaten football titans, Navy and Notre Dame, clashed in the top grid battle of this year. Blue skies, instead of the predicted gray, reigned over the stadium and playing conditions were perfect as the elevens trotted onto the field.

Just before the game Notre Dame Coach Hugh Devore told of receiving a letter from Bob Kelly, who played with the Irish last year and is with Navy this season. Kelly said he was going to play as hard as he could against his old teammates and expected them to hit him just as hard. That seemed to express the spirit of the game.

FIRST PERIOD

Notre Dame went for distance on the first play after receiving the kickoff, Frank Dancewicz passing 42 yards to end Bob Skoglund on the Middie 26, but Navy dug in and took the ball on downs on the 15 as two Dancewicz tosses into the end zone failed.

A few plays later, aided by Elmer Angsman's 22-yard run, Notre Dame moved back to Navy's 27 where Navy held and took over again.

After an exchange of punts, Navy from its own 32 passed on first down, but Frank Ruggerio intercepted for the Irish on the 40 and ran back to the 34. From there the Irish hit the line 12 times, with Ruggerio going four yards for a touchdown with less than 30 seconds of the period remaining. Stan Krivak's try for the extra point was blocked by Dick Scott, Navy center, and the Irish led 6 to 0.

Score—Notre Dame 6, Navy 0

SECOND PERIOD

Bob Kelley's 63-yard put to Notre Dame's seven put the Irish in a hole, and they lost five in three plays. Dancewicz punted out to the 35, but Notre Dame took possession on its own 30 as the Middie attack failed. Three running plays carried the Irish to the Navy 45 from where Dancewicz punted to Navy's 7.

Tony Minisi tried a pass from the end zone for Navy, but it was knocked down, and then punted to his own 47. Pass interceptions were traded almost in midfield, then Jim McGurk of Notre Dame fumbled on Navy's 44 and Leon Bramlett recovered for Navy. With less than 10 seconds to play, Bruce Smith tried a pass from Notre Dame's 30, but Leonard intercepted and raced 49 yards before he was caught from behind by Ralph Williams on the Navy 20, as the half ended.

Score: Notre Dame 6, Navy 0.

Chandler Names Muddy Ruel Aide

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP)—Albert B. Chandler, commissioner of baseball, today appointed Harold "Muddy" Ruel of the Chicago White Sox coaching staff, as his special assistant succeeding Leslie M. O'Connor.

Ruel, a lawyer, will take over his duties at Cincinnati, Chandler's new headquarters, Dec. 15.

O'Connor had resigned to become the new general manager of the Chicago White Sox, Dec. 15.

Ruel said he was delighted with his appointment, but would miss his associations with the White Sox with whom he served for 12 years.
